William Mead, who by the light of day promotes mining ventures, manages affairs for several corporations, and has for his associates two well-known Reno men, and who is alleged by the police to be by night the paramour of a fallen woman, and a man who has co-operated in depredations with an organized gang of tenderloin crooks from Denver, was arrested last night when the police found him hidden in a tunnel behind red-light district cribs, where the panels of doors had been so arranged that a man could reach through and steal the valuables of the patrons of the rooms.

Stocks and Skeleton Keys

While his face showed no sign of guilt, the patrolmen searched their prisoner in the city jail, taking from one pocket of his clothes an order directed to the Cox brokerage house for the sale of 1000 shares of Blue Bull stock, correspondence to W. A. McNaughton, and testimonials to his relations with C. A. Clough. In another pocket were found skeleton keys, lock picks and other tools of a burglar.

Mead was caught as a result of efforts by the police to detect the perpetrator of the unusual number of (Continued on Page Eight)

HOW THE GREAT STRIKE BEGAN AND SPREAD

THE strike of the telegraph operators in the United States now affects nearly 50 cities and is the most far-reaching of any labor union walk-out ever known. The money loss is already heavy. It started last Tuesday at 5 p. m. in the Western Union office at Los Angeles, when 90 men stopped work on the refusal of the manager to reinstate an operator named Ryan, discharged, the company says, for delaying messages. Thursday afternoon the Western Union operators of Chicago, 1160 in number, walked out. They were immediately followed by 500 Postal Telegraph Company employees in the same city and the same evening Denver followed the example. By Saturday evening 39 offices in the principal commercial cities were shut down and yesterday this was augmented by more. The men ask an increase in pay and for shorter hours. The national officers of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union say that this is a purely local union movement over which they have no control, but it is believed that the sudden strike had been carefully prepared for months. The men are supported by the Order of Railway Telegraphers, which has $1,000,000 in its treasury, and they are said to be well financed themselves.

GLOBE TROTTERS NEW LICENSE LAW WED IN RENO AFTER ODD WOODING

BOTH BRITONS BORN IN FOREIGN LANDS

Met In London, To Marry In Nevada, the Bride Coming 7,000 Miles for Ceremony

Both born of English parents in foreign lands, he a traveler who has traversed 200,000 miles of this earth, and she, casually met but later ardently wooed and won in London, coming all the way to Reno over sea and land after two years to wed her fiancé, David Chalmers Hutchinson, and Miss Marjorie Routledge, who were married yesterday morning at the Trinity Episcopal church.

Mrs. Hutchinson arrived in this city at an early hour yesterday, completing the journey of 7000 miles after getting a cablegram that her lover was ready to receive her. Hutchinson, who is connected with Goldfield Consolidated mines, met his bride at the depot, and they immediately went to the church, where they were married by Rev. Samuel Unsworth.

Nineteen years ago Mrs. Hutchinson was born in California, her father and mother being natives of Great Britain. Twenty-six years ago Hutchinson was born in Hong Kong, his father and mother, too, being Londoners.

Mr. Hutchinson's education was largely augmented by globe trotting, and before he had completed the record of covering a greater distance than eight times around the sphere, he was introduced in the city by the Thames to the girl who was later to become his wife in the city by the Truckee.

After a brief courtship Mr. Hutchinson was obliged to leave England, and since his arrival in this state he has been a resident of the southern (Continued on Page Two)

FRAUD CHARGED OVER TONOPAH MINING'S TAX RETURNS

SCANDAL EXPECTED TO BREAK COVER TODAY

State Officials Summoned to Southern Camp To Aid In Investigation

DISTRICT ATTORNEY STARTED THE INQUIRY

Bullion Tax Collector Says He Made Levy On Basis of Sworn Statements

(Special Dispatch to The Journal)

TONOPAH, Aug. 11.—The investigation of alleged fraud connected with the bullion tax returns of the Tonopah Mining Company was not resolute of developments yesterday or today.

After hotly spoken words in a meeting Saturday at the office of the corporation had involved Collector James H. Neven, Auditor Grimes, District Attorney McCarran, and Secretary Charles, these men are all silent. But it is thought their silence is preliminary to action when Attorney-General Stoddard and State Auditor Roff arrive. Telegrams to both of these officials have been sent, and repeated.

The commissioners think it strange that the tax on the Tonopah corporation should be less this year than last, and are not satisfied with the explanation of Mr. Neven, that a large amount of money was spent in the construction of a 100-stamp mill.

Auditor Grimes contends that since the total production of the company has increased, the tax should be greater, and that no deductions in the tax can be made for expenditures except such as are for the actual production of ore. The cost of the new mill does not come under this head, and it is contended that the deductions of that expenditure should not have been permitted by Neven.

Mr. Neven was telegraphed to come here by District Attorney McCarran. He arrived Friday. He conferred immediately with the county officials. Later they all met with the secretary of the Tonopah Mining Company. The difficulties are growing instead of lessening, and the suppression of the details of the story is the cause of some of the rumors that many think will result in a sensation.

It was learned tonight that Attorney-General Stoddard is in California on his vacation. Roff ought to arrive in the morning. The whole story will probably be let loose tomorrow.

Some infer that the reduction of the bullion tax paid the state is part of President J. W. Brock's policy of (Continued on Page Two)

Leased Wire Operators and Press Association Men Next to Walk out PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT SENDS NEILL TO CHICAGO

Railway Tickers Ordered to Take No Business That Will Aid the Western Union

TODAY will be the crucial point in the telegraphers' strike. President Roosevelt has directed Labor Commissioner Neill to intervene at Chicago, and New York operators have agreed, reluctantly, to wait until Friday noon before action. Meanwhile, however, the strike has spread until it embraces 50 cities and the brokerage-office operators, Associated and United Press men and all employed on leased wires have decided to go out unless favorable answers to their demands are given. Today, therefore, will probably see the entire paralysis of the commercial centers of America through complete absence of market and newspaper reports.

ROOSEVELT TAKES A HAND IN THE TELEGRAPH STRIKE

LABOR COMMISSIONER NEILL SENT TO CHICAGO

New York Operators Postpone
Walk-out Order Until Friday
Pending the Conference

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—President Roosevelt has taken a hand in the strike of the telegraphers. At the meeting of the local union today a strike of the 3000 operators in New York was deferred until Friday because James P. Archibald, secretary of the National Civic Federation, announced that the President had sent Labor Commissioner Charles P. Neill to Chicago to confer with Samuel J. Small, president of the Telegraphers' Union, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Ralph M. Easley, chairman of the executive council of the National Civic Federation. He will endeavor to effect an adjustment of the difficulties between the telegraph companies and their employees throughout the country.

The meeting of the local Telegraphers' Union was punctuated by acrimonious discussion on the question of deferring action on a strike, and it was only after the 3-hours' argument, in which the local union officers used all their efforts for deferment, that (Continued on Page Two) capitated by the men themselves, without the sanction of the national officers, but we are now all working in unison, and anything that the officials of the various unions throughout the country have done in calling strikes meets with our hearty co-operation."

Railway Telegraphers to Aid.
This announcement was made by Mr. Russell at a mass-meeting of the striking telegraphers held in Brand's hall this afternoon. The hall was seat 1500 persons, and, so great was the demand for accommodations, that several hundred of the striking operators were unable to gain admittance to the building and remained in the streets in the vicinity until some of the early arrivals had left the hall.
The Order of Railway Telegraphers was represented by National Secretary Quick. Mr. Quick informed the strikers that his organization was at their disposal both morally and financially.
"We have $1,000,000 in our treasury," said he, "and it is at your disposal.
Your fight is ours and we will stand with you until the end."

Leased Wire Men.
Before the mass-meeting the 320 members of the union working for the companies using leased wires met.
A resolution was adopted declaring that this class of labor was underpaid and that the various firms would be asked to sign a wage schedule and also to employ none but union telegraphers.
It was decided to let the private wire men prepare and present their own schedules to their employers.
The broker men will present their schedule at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, calling for a minimum of $30 a week.

The men employed by the press associations presented their request at 7:30 o'clock tonight, and the employers will be given 24 hours to comply with it. The schedule presented calls for $35 a week for six nights a week, and 10 cents an hour over time, eight hours to constitute a day's work, with half an hour for lunch. The operators employed by the news companies and newspapers in the day time will ask for $30 a week and 60 cents an hour overtime, eight hours to constitute a day's work and the regular lunch. These requests were presented to every news-gathering organization in the United States and Canada tonight and 24 hours will be allowed for an answer. If at the end of the time the demands have not met with a favorable response the men will report to the Union officials and they say a strike will be ordered.

In regard to the newspaper end of the controversy, Secretary Russell issued the following statement tonight:

Notice to Publishers
To all Publishers, United States and Canada: The Commercial Telegraphers Union does not desire, in any way whatever, to hamper the newspapers of the country. We are fighting for our rights, however, and believing able to go to London, where it was originally planned the wedding should take place, Hutchinson called his fiancee to journey to Reno.

The marriage was performed at intendent of the Montana-Tonopah mine, and Miss Hannah Unsworth attended the couple. Mr. and Mrs.

Hutchinson will spend their honey-sent a schedule to their employers asking for what we consider reasonable recompense for their labors. If these demands are not met with by the various news-gathering organizations be ordered to quit work."

In Chicago today the officials of both companies declared that they had no more men working than they needed.
"Sunday is quiet in the telegraph business," said one of these officials,
"but we could have handled twice as much business as we did. In fact we sent several operators home, as we did not need them."

Spread of the Strike About 500 men were added to the ranks of the strikers today. The new recruits come from various sections throughout the country, in each case the strikes being precipitated by the men refusing to work with non-union men in other cities. Tonight approximately 4500 telegraphers are on strike, divided among the following cities:
Chicago, St. Louis, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Denver, Kansas City, Memphis, New Orleans, Tampa, Seattle (Ore.), Pueblo, Jackson (Miss.),
Dallas, Houston, Nashville, Columbus,

PRESIDENT SMALL ISSUES ULTIMATUM

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—It was announced today by S. J. Small, national president of the Commercial Telegraphers Union of America, that if by Tuesday next no way is found to bring about a conciliation in the telegraphers controversy, a general strike will be called by him. Mr. Small further said that he had advised Charles P. Neill, United States commissioner of labor, that he could guarantee an immediate resumption of work if the government would insist upon an investigation or arbitration of the telegraphers' grievances.

ROOSEVELT TAKES HAND IN STRIKE

the decision was finally arrived at giving the local executive board full power to call a strike if the Chicago conference failed to result in material concessions.
Several warm speeches declaring for a strike were made by members, and a motion to call a strike was about to be made when Chairman Ahearn announced that James P. Archbold, secretary of the National Civic Federation, and a member of the Brotherhood of Painters, had an important statement to make.

What Archbold Said.
Mr. Archbold said that he had received a telegram from United States Labor Commissioner Charles P. Neill that he was proceeding to Chicago immediately at the request of President Roosevelt to confer with President Small of the Telegraphers' Union, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Ralph M. Easley, chairman of the executive council of the National Civic Federation, to try to effect a settlement of the difficulty now existing between the telegraph companies and their employees. Mr. Archbold told the meeting that Commissioner Neill desired that the local operators make no strike declarations at this time.
Several men were on their feet in an instant and a strong effort was made to bring the meeting to a vote, declaring that the time had passed for parley and that nothing could come from the Chicago conference. Several of the older men counseled delay and in the heated argument that followed Chairman Ahearn had to rap repeatedly for order.

Amended Resolution.
An amended resolution was finally adopted that: "In view of the statement of Mr. Archbold, immediate action on the question of calling a strike be deferred and that the local union notify both the telegraph companies that if they continue trying to recruit strike-breakers in New York, summary action will be taken; and further, that the men now on their way to Chicago be given till Friday noon to conduct negotiations. If by that time they have failed to secure material and favorable concessions, the New York local president is empowered to call a strike immediately."

ANTI-TRUST LAW IN TEXAS A GO

Merchants Cannot Become Exclusive Agents for Combines Without Being Punished.

MAGNATES ARE NOW OUTLAWED

Drastic Legislation of the Lone Star
State Is in Full Effect at Last.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal)
AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 11.—What is admittedly the most drastic anti-trust law ever passed by any state legislature became effective in Texas yesterday, having been passed at the recent special session of the legislature. According to Attorney-General Davidson, however, reports that the act would serve to prevent Texas merchants from handling trust-made goods are not true. The law will be applied only to the agents and representatives of trusts operating in Texas and not to merchants or jobbers buying their goods in the open market. Any trader who is doing his own business may buy and sell trust-made goods without limit. The penalties under the new law apply only to persons or corporations who become agents of trusts under exclusive agreements and who willfully and knowingly promote the interests of trusts or illegal combinations.

Former Laws Inadequate.
"The entire purpose and effect of this statute," says Attorney General A. W. Davidson, "is to make it a felony for any person or firm or corporation to organize outside of or within this state or to carry on or maintain in this state any monopoly or conspiracy in restraint of trade.
Experience has demonstrated that our former laws defining trusts, monopolies and conspiracies in restraint of trade and prescribing penalties for violation thereof were entirely inadequate to meet existing conditions.
It was to meet these conditions and to reach those who were active in the creation and maintenance of trusts, as, for instance, officers, employees and agents of trusts, and not to extend the definition of trusts to embrace those who purchase trust-made goods, that this statute was enacted."

Reasons for Statute.
"Further anti-trust legislation of this character was the result of the well-known purpose of the trusts of the country to convert and appropriate the territory of Texas for their greed and exploitation. This bill is intended to reach the officers, agents and employees of these freebooters, and makes it a felony for them to put their vocation in this state. The punishment for these malefactors will be strikes. This bill, if strictly enforced, as it will be, will put the stamp of criminality upon the trust magnates and make them outlaws in Texas, to be run down and punished in the same manner as a cattle rustler or a horse thief. The enforcement of the felony provisions is mandatory on the county and district attorneys, aided by the attorney-general."

Dr. J. B. Redmon was cited yesterday to appear in the police court this morning at 10 o'clock to answer the charge filed against him by John Gulling, of the undertaking firm of Perkins & Gulling, for refusing to sign a certificate of the cause of death of R. W. Martin, who was his patient and who died of pneumonia.
Before being served with the citation to appear before the police magistrate this morning, Dr. Redmon was discussing the matter in the postoffice, and said:
"I've got the case where I want them now. I'll show them what they are up against. I've got something up my sleeve for the case and the y'dn't dare let this case go to trial."
Other equally edifying remarks followed, before the doctor who withheld a death certificate because his bill was not paid, left the postoffice.
Shortly afterwards he ran into Officer Tully and received his notice to appear before Police Judge Richardson this morning for having violated a city ordinance.

NO WORK YET ON MINES BUILDING

Architect Richardson Not Arrived, Bliss, Sektom Here and Contractor Schuler Is Stubborn

MAY COST UNIVERSITY DEAR
Construction Company's Bid Was $21400 More Than Clarence Mackay's Appropriation

For a month and five days work on the Mackay School of Mines at the University of Nevada has been suspended because of the rejection of materials by Supervising Architect Bliss. The settlement of the trouble over the rejection of the materials, and arranging for the additional payment for extras not mentioned in the original contract, seems no nearer than it was the first week. W. D. Bliss has been here and gone. Eugene Schuler, the contractor, is waiting, and the university faculty is in an uproar. That, according to Schuler, was the condition yesterday.

"Mr. Mackay's appropriation was $70000 for the building completed," said Schuler yesterday. "The bid of the Northwestern Construction Company, that I represent, was $94,400. The kind of material was changed, reducing the cost, but now it looks as though McKim, Mead & White, drawers of the plans, want to have extras included without providing for their payment."

Architect Richardson of McKim, Mead & White's office in New York, was expected to arrive here last week for the purpose of adjusting the differences of the contractor and the superintendent, but he has not come. W. D. Bliss is engaged at Lake Tahoe in the construction of buildings there, and Schuler says his visits are infrequent.

President Stubbs fears the controversy between the architects and the contractor will displace Mr. Mackay, and that he may be reluctant to continue the gifts he has promised.

PAROLED PRISONER YET WORKS IN PENITENTIARY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal)
CARSON CITY, Aug. 11.—Dan O'Doane, who was paroled from the state prison here nearly a month ago, but whose release has been signed by Secretary of the Governor, Davis, left his cell to become an employee of the penitentiary. O'Doane, although free, chose to remain within the jail walls.

When the board of pardons imposed the condition that the convict, who was sentenced for bigamy, and whose first wife and children reside near Fallon, pay his family $60 a month, O'Doane was ready to agree. He is a stone mason and will take a job cutting the stone that is quarried by the felons at the state institution. Part of his wages will be withheld by the warden, and sent to Mrs. O'Doane.

COAL FAMINE, SAYS HARRIMAN

Predicts Fuel Shortage and Blames Car Facilities and Labor—Railroad Exonerated

DECREES RATE LEGISLATION
Believes That Transportation Lines Are Not Getting a Square Deal in Public Opinion Court

(By Associated Press)
OMAHA, Aug. 11.—E. H. Harriman and his two sons attended church at Trinity Episcopal cathedral here today during a break in the westward vacation trip which the railroad magnate is making in his special train. The Harriman party was accompanied from Chicago to Omaha by President Harahan of the Illinois Central. Mr. Harriman gave out a long interview this afternoon. Many of his statements had, however, been made before. He declined to comment upon recent court actions against corporations.

Coal Shortage
In answer to questions Mr. Harriman said:
"I think we shall have a coal shortage this winter, due to the general increase in the consumption of coal by reason of the great expansion of all lines of industry all over the country and, also, to the fact that some mines are not able to turn out as much as they might because of a lack of labor, and then there is the shortage of freight cars to be reckoned with."
"As to this air shortage, I want to say a word in reply to the general charge that the railroads are wholly to blame for coal shortage. The charge is unjust in many respects. Numerous causes conspire to bring about a shortage or congestion in cars of which the people know nothing, and they are causes for which the railroads are not responsible and cannot avoid."

Doesn't Like State Laws
Mr. Harriman decried the recent tendency of rate legislation. Said he:
"In the development and improvement of railroads one factor of vital consideration is the relative cost of material and labor and the scale of rates for traffic. Labor is scarce and much higher paid than ever, material is often hard to get and costs more, yet rates have been reduced and taxes increased."

"This is not a consideration which holds out either to the people or the railroads the brightest prospects. Under the present conditions of the higher cost of labor and material the tendency of rates should be to remain stationary, but is it?"

President Harahan of the Illinois Central expressed enthusiasm for the motor car which is now being so largely added to the equipment of the Union Pacific and said the manufacture and use of this car was now under consideration by his company.

MRS. EDDY TO BE EXAMINED

Head of Christian Scientists Will Have Her Business Competency Passed on This Week

MANY DEPOSITIONS RECEIVED
Residents of New Hampshire Will Have to Give Their Testimony to Masters Orally.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal)
CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 11.—Judge Edgar Aldrich, of the United States district court of New Hampshire, sitting as master, and Dr. George P. Jelly, of Boston, and Hosea W. Parker, of Claremont, as co-masters, will tomorrow begin the hearing of the inquiry brought by "next friends" to determine the competency of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, head of the Christian Science church.

General Frank S. Streeter will represent Mrs. Eddy as leading counsel, while Senator Chandler is the legal representative of George W. Glover and other "next friends."

The Sole Issue.
The investigation will be devoted solely to the issue as to whether Mrs. Eddy was competent or incompetent to manage and control her business affairs on or about March 1, when the present suit was instituted. Judge Aldrich has ruled that all witnesses within the state must be heard orally, instead of by deposition. Attorneys for the "next friends" hope that the exclusion of depositions on the part of local witnesses will also be carried out in the case of Mrs. Eddy, which would bring about what they say they have desired at all times, her appearance before a judicial tribunal.

The defense, however, expresses confidence that the masters will undoubtedly examine her within the precincts of Pleasant View. The plaintiffs have secured depositions from states as far west as California. Attempts may be made by the plaintiffs to secure an extension of time, but these will almost certainly be denied by the masters.

Mrs. Eddy Competent.
Any such move will be fought by General Streeter, attorney for Mrs. Eddy. He said:
"Mrs. Eddy, while of sound mind and able to conduct her affairs, is suffering from a general depletion of physical strength. She is now in her 87th year, and is entitled to a speedy settlement of the charges brought against her. To defer this inquiry longer would be a denial of justice and constitutional right, and we will fight any such move."

"Yes, I'm going abroad at once. I go to go."

"Oh, you mustn't let the doctors scare you."

"I got this from a lawyer."—Washington Herald.

"Come," cried the mother of the peevish little bullpup, "you can't mend matters by whining, can you?"

"I'm afraid not," whined the pup.

"Then," said the mother, "if not, whine not."—Answers.

"Beg pardon, sir," said the waiter, with outstretched palm, "but 'aven't you forgotten something?"

"No," replied the departing guest, "but I'm trying to forget it. Good day."—Catholic Standard and Times.

UNIONS COMING FROM ALL OVER

Labor Day Committee of Central Building Trades Council Making Elaborate Celebration Plans

OVER 7500 WILL BE HERE
Parade in the Morning, Open-Air Speaking in the Afternoon, Picnic in the Evening

Labor Day in Reno is to be the greatest field day of organized workers that has ever been held in this state. That was the opinion expressed by members of the Labor Day committee of the Central Building Trades' Council yesterday after holding a meeting and discussing plans for the celebration.

Instead of a union of forces of Reno, Carson City and Virginia City, as has been the custom in the past, all unions throughout the state, whether affiliated with any main body or not, are to be invited. Unions from Carson, Virginia City, Gold Hill, Sparks, Tonopah and Goldfield, as well as from many other towns, have expressed their intention of attending. A parade will be held in the morning, and the committee believes that between 7500 and 8000 men will be in line. Sports and games will be held in the afternoon, and an attempt is being made to secure the grounds of the Hotel Nevada for speaking. One man is to be appointed from each local union to make an address.

Although not definitely settled, it is intended to hold a kind of picnic in the evening for the benefit of the labor unions of Reno.

The committees of parade, finance, transportation, entertainment, amusement, music and program have been appointed and others, as sports and refreshments, will be chosen next Sunday. An attempt will be made to obtain excursion rates for the day from all over the state.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

Allen Kinkead and wife, who recently returned to Nevada after several years in South Africa, left this city yesterday for Carson City. Mr. Kinkead was born and raised in Reno and was graduated from the University of Nevada as a mining engineer. He is manager of the Anglo Deep, one of the richest mines in the Dark Continent. Mrs. Kinkead is a niece of Fred Hellman, the mining engineer who controls the Anglo Deep. J. A. Fulton, another Reno boy who has been in South Africa, has returned to Nevada with Kinkead, and will stay here on a short visit to his parents.

J. T. Stevens of the Harris Mining Company, Wadsworth, is a visitor in Reno.

Attorney James T. Boyd prepared to leave last night for Tonopah in the interests of the Mims-Sutro case.

Attorney-General Richard Stoddard is in California.

E. W. Clapp, district freight and passenger agent of the Southern Pacific, spent Sunday at Lake Tahoe.

Now the Colored Supplement

BEGINNING with Sunday, September 1st, the NEVADA STATE JOURNAL will publish regularly, as a part of its Sunday paper, a 4-PAGE COLORED SUPPLEMENT.

¶ This supplement will consist of two pages of comic drawings by some of the foremost artists in that line in the country, men who rank well with such artists as Outcault, who made Buster Brown famous, Swinnerton, Opper, and others whose drawings hold the interest of young and old in the larger cities of the country.

¶ One page in this supplement will be devoted exclusively to fiction matter of an extremely high grade and the fourth page will be devoted to matters of particular interest to women, including letter press and colored drawings treating of the latest fashions, household recipes, and a mass of other general information which will, we believe, prove of interest to every woman in the state of Nevada.

¶ THERE WILL BE NO INCREASE IN THE PRICE of the Sunday JOURNAL as the result of the addition of this colored supplement, it being in line with the purpose of the publishers to improve the paper in every possible respect.

SUNDAY'S SERMONS BY RENO MINISTERS

WITH the return of cooler weather and the home coming of summer vacationists, the churches yesterday were very fully attended. Rev. H. T. Chisholm had one of the largest congregations in the history of the First Presbyterian church, and during Mr. Chisholm's pastorate the Sunday school has grown by leaps and bounds. The union Methodist-Congregational services were largely attended, and the sermons of Rev. C. L. Mears were listened to with deep interest. Only morning services are being held at the Episcopal and Catholic churches and the worshippers were as many as usual.

The Congregational and Methodist churches yesterday held the closing service of the series of union meetings in the Methodist church. Next Sunday the congregations will meet in their respective churches.

Rev. C. L. Mears' Sermon
At the morning service Rev. C. L. Mears of the Congregational church addressed a large audience on the theme, "The Temple of the Spirit," from the text: "Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Spirit?" (Cor. vi. 19.)

Corinth was submerged by carnalities, he said, and the church of Corinth had partaken of them. The Christian people of that city were also divided into factions, and many difficulties threatened the life of the church. The Apostle Paul advised the Christian people of Corinth to save the church and glorify God by more spiritual lives. He reminded them that their own bodies were the temples of the Holy Ghost.

There is much talk about worshipping God in nature and it is true that God has communed with men in woods and mountains, Mr. Mears continued, but God's greatest temple is not inanimate nature. God has also communed with men in cathedral and temple, in great churches and lowly chapels; but Jesus said that neither in the mountain nor in Jerusalem were men to go for worship, but that the true worshipper might worship the Father in spirit and in truth. The greatest temple of God on earth is the human body, whose doors includes the stars, whose walls are living, pulsating with sympathy and love. The spirit of God is within our own life for communion and power.

It is a sad sight to see a church once dedicated to God, sold to traffickers and used for ignoble purposes; it is still more sad to see a human life made in the image of God, with untold possibilities of good, devoted to low and debasing purposes. It is the purpose of God that the beauty and spiritual power of the Christ should be repeated in every life. The grandest thing in the world is a human life, radiant with God's spirit, proclaiming silently and powerfully the presence of God in the world.

"Our body is a temple of the living God," said the preacher. "Through its outer court it can minister unto a needy world; in the inner court it can offer acceptable sacrifice to God and in the Holy of Holies of the soul the holy fire can ever reveal the presence of the living God. This bodily temple has been bought with a price. All the ages have contributed to the present possibilities of human life; prophets, martyrs, parents, teachers, have all labored to make the life of today rich in spiritual blessing. Jesus Christ lived and died that men might know the redemption of the body from sin into godliness."

"The duty of the hour is that men should restore their bodies to the high uses of God, that the whole life should have more self-control, more gentleness, devotion and love. Sin destroys and cheapens personality; holiness gives true glory to life. There is no monotony in studying the lives of the saints of God. The presence of God's spirit continually reveals new visions of power and happiness."

"Without God's spirit we are like the ships at low tide, buried in the sands, helpless and useless. Receiving the spirit of God, our life is lifted up and the possibilities of God are world-wide, relating us to the blessed life of Heaven. Make your body a temple of the Holy Spirit and wisdom, boldness, power and love will fill your life to the full."

The Wages of Sin
Rev. H. T. Chisholm took as his morning's text Romans vi. 23, "The wages of sin is death." The theme was treated by the consideration of the two paths—the one, the broad and level path leading down to destruction, and the other the straight and narrow path leading, not only to the joys and happiness of this world, but even into eternal life. The troubles and sorrows of the one, were vividly contrasted with the pleasures and rewards of the other.

At the evening service the life of Samuel the Prophet was considered, this being one of a series of lectures on Old Testament characters which Mr. Chisholm is giving.

Mr. Unsworth's Sermon
"A Revelation of Tender Love in the Heart of a Great Sorrow," was the subject of Rev. Samuel Unsworth's sermon at Trinity. He took for his text Hosea 1:2, "The beginning of the word of the Lord by Hosea. And the Lord said to Hosea, Go, take unto thee a wife of whoredoms and children of whoredoms, for the land hath committed great whoredom, departing from the Lord."

"Revelation of God is being more and more seen to be in sight into the meaning of the experience of men, and inspiration is the gift of this spirit of insight, the ability to interpret and expound the experience," said the preacher. "The prophet Hosea in the eighth century before Christ saw love, conjugal love, as well as the children that are the natural fruit and blessing of it, to be, in the Psalmist's phrase, 'a gift and heritage that cometh of the Lord.' Therefore he dates the time when Jehovah began to reveal Himself to him from the day on which his first love for Gomer, the daughter of Diblaim, sprang up in his heart. He doubtless, believed, as Cheyne says, that he was selecting a bride like the Shulamite of his favorite poem, a lily of the valley, but found that he had unwares

"enfolded in his arms a lily torn and trampled in the mire." "Gomer proved shamelessly wanton, finally abandoning the prophet's home, for the house of the stranger, only to find herself soon abandoned by her paramour and even sold by him as a slave. Hosea's love, 'strong as death, obstinate as Sheol,' seeks out the wretched woman and brings her home, not at first to all love's privileges but to the cleansing chastisement of seclusion. And I said to her, For many days shall thou abide, as far as I am concerned, alone. Thou shalt not play the harlot. Thou shalt not be for a husband; and I on my side also shall be so toward thee."

"It is another case of the hardness of love—love restraining itself, that it may the more truly love. And

Our Hard Luck

Wall Street was so worried over John D. Rockefeller's interview in the Cleveland Plain Dealer and The Journal Saturday morning according to the financial dispatches, that the downward movement of stock prices became almost a slump.

There was nothing in the talk of the Standard Oil chief, though, to warrant any such feeling in New York or anywhere else. What did it amount to, after all? Just the intentionally pessimistic utterances of an old speculator, who knows his own importance and would not be averse to buying in a lot of shares that he might scare into being dumped on the market. It was not even marked by such an original touch as one would expect from a man who, informed that he had been fined $20,249,000 by a United States court, could go merrily on and, although nearly 70 years old, win the golf match in which he was engaged when the messengers gave him the telegram.

Rate legislation, he informs us, is a "direct loss to thousands of frugal people who have invested small savings in these enterprises," and "the business of the country is so interwoven that an injury or an operation at one point shocks and weakens the whole."

He ought to know. He is at the head of the greatest trust the world has ever known, and it is mainly due to his efforts that the railroads, as well as the oil investments of the United States, have a community of interest and understanding among themselves, which all the power of the federal government has so far failed to break. If rate legislation, directed against one railway, injures or in any way interferes with another, who is to blame but John D. Rockefeller, who combined all the roads until they are owned practically by the same people in Wall Street?

If "frugal people have invested small savings" in the railways of this country and find themselves threatened with loss because the managers defy the law, it would appear to be logical that all the "frugal people" have to do is to throw overboard the transportation pirates at the head of the companies and put law-abiding officials in their place. Of course, if John D. is one of the "frugal" of whom he speaks, that would be easy, but investors might well ask to be protected from such frugality.

John D. says he works for the people—that he has been doing so ever since he earned his first dollar. It might be suggested to him that the people, then, have paid him rather well for his work and that they would be pleased to get rid of him. They do not want him, and when working for them means that they have to pay exorbitant prices for transportation, for oil and for everything that the man who calls himself their servant is interested in, they may be excused for praying: "From the crafts and assaults of the Devil, Good Lord deliver us."

And he says that he could have converted his property into gold and gone to England at one time, but that way to escape his "responsibilities" never occurred to him. Worse luck for us.

One Man Who Appreciates.

When one is striving with all his might to do things, often striving against adversity, a word of appreciation is of timely assistance. Efforts for achievement may have appreciation reflected in their material concomi-tants; but the word from the heart counts more than things material. To have an acquaintance take you by the hand and say, "That's good work, keep it up," is encouraging. To have a stranger call and offer his expression of cheer is even more encouraging, for it is generally more unselfish than the word of a friend.

We do not happen to enjoy the pleasure of personal acquaintance with C. C. Berger of Vancouver, B. C. But we think we know the man. He is one who can see behind things visible the effort by which they were produced, and who can understand the sentiment and purpose that underlie the production. And seeing and understanding, he is not afraid to come forward with a word of good cheer—the sort of an expression that warms the cockles of the heart, and makes one feel that his efforts are not wholly vain. Here is a letter we received yesterday from Mr. Berger:

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 7, 1907.
To the Publishers of The Journal, Reno, Nevada. — At long range, I want to congratulate you on the splendid enterprise you exhibit in The Journal. My sister, Mrs. S. T. Taylor, sends the paper to me regularly, and it has become a part of my regular meals. Although I am not acquainted with any one in that section, the sprightliness and get-there-on-the-spot style of your newspaper work makes me jump in the air and say, "Bully for you!" every time the mail man arrives. I have been in the business for over 40 years, and I want to congratulate you on sending out one of the brightest and most fearless papers I have placed my optics on for many a day. Go at 'em. Wish I was in the country where I could throw my voice in the air and yell through the top of my hat for your success. May you live long and prosper and be able to blow the dust out of the eyes of old mossbacks until you make Nevada the brightest star in the galaxy of our Union and Reno the center of Uncle Sam's domain. Siskie, shake! And have one on me at long distance. Let the picnisters keep busy and the pencil-shooters on the rush.
You have my warmest heartfelt congratulations, and don't miss me unless the paper mill runs dry. I am,
Trine, fraternally,
(Signed) C. C. BERGER.

Maybe you think a letter like that, coming from a man of whose existence we never dreamed until we slit the envelope and drew forth the missive, and from a man living in a foreign land, doesn't do one good.

If you think so, you are mistaken. It is that sort of encouragement which makes newspaper men forget obstacles, and buckle harder to their work.

We toast Mr. Berger; he's a man who knows.

The Quarrel With the S. P.

Once upon a time, to begin the tale in the good old-fashioned way, some one wrote, "Nevada has no quarrel with the Southern Pacific." It was a foolish thing to say, since the facts could not be made to bear out the statement unless one was disposed to interpret literally the biblical quotation which says, in effect, that when you are swatted in one place, generously offer the swatter a spot for another blow.

Nevada is not a complaisant swatee, neither is Reno. It has been swatted so often by the Southern Pacific that its disposition is to quarrel unceasingly until the flls from which it suffers by reason of the throttling policy of the transportation trust to which it is bound, are alleviated. Hence the enactment, last winter, of the Railroad Commission Act, the legality of which is now being contested in the courts under judicial conditions which make impossible for the present, exercise by the Commission of its powers.

This morning The Journal presents some of the instances of unwarranted and outrageous discriminations against Reno which give not only this city but the entire state of Nevada cause to quarrel with the Southern Pacific. When the rates charged by that railroad for freight transportation are so framed that wholesale dealers in Reno, and those who would like to come to the city to embark in the wholesale trade, have no opportunity to reach the market which belongs by right to them, there is not only reason for quarreling, but there is reason for standing up and fighting like men until the battle is won. The tale of this discriminatory attitude toward Reno, which the S. P. refuses to abandon, is the tale of why Reno does not progress more rapidly. A few years ago, it made no difference whether there were wholesale houses in Reno or not. The population of the state was too small to justify much effort at wholesaling from this city. But conditions have changed. Nevada is becoming well-populated with people who are liberal buyers. The trade of these people, were freight rates so adjusted as to enable Reno to command it, would add mightily to the wealth and importance of Nevada's chief city.

Reno is the natural trading center for all of Nevada. And so long as the Southern Pacific insists on thus discriminating against the city, Reno has a quarrel with the railroad which is equivalent to a fight for its commercial life.

S. P. DRIVES NEVADA'S TRADE AWAY FROM RENO

Battle Mountain, if he buys from Reno, must withstand a total freight charge of $2.89 a hundred pounds. On the other hand, Sacramento jobbers are favored by the Southern Pacific, and the total freight rate through from the capital of California to Battle Mountain per 100 pounds on wind mills and their attachments is $1.99.

Trade Goes Across Sierras
Naturally the buyer, if he be the consumer, will purchase in the Sacramento market, get the benefit of the 70 cents difference and pay no heed to the fact that an unfair freight rate has barred the Reno jobber from his trade.

To operate in the Battle Mountain market against the merchants of Sacramento, the jobber of Reno must cut his profit to such an extent that the 70 cent per 100 pounds extortion charge can be offset. Reno wholesalers cannot compete under such a handicap. The railroad is to blame.

Therefore, if wind mills can be sold by Sacramento hardware houses in Battle Mountain for 70 cents less on every 100 pounds than by Reno firms, the consumers to the east will not favor this city with their orders.

The Commercial League asked the Southern Pacific that the rate from Reno to Battle Mountain be reduced enough for each 100 pounds on all freight of the first class—wind mills included—so that the jobbers here might compete with those in Sacramento.

The answer was:

"We cannot grant the request. Too many others would want it."

And it was declared that Sacramento and San Francisco are to be favored, through a maintenance of these discriminatory rates, to the disadvantage of Reno.

Flour Dealers are Barred

Reno has large flour mills. The demand for the staple in the state is great and growing. The merchant here knows of this demand. He wants, for instance, to sell his product at Winnemucca. The Southern Pacific charges for shipments on flour in less than car load lots from Reno to Winnemucca 85 cents for each 100 pounds. Sacramento jobbers can send flour to this city in less than car load lots for 37 cents. Sacramento can ship flour to Winnemucca for $1.20. The combined charges paid by Reno merchants from Sacramento to this city and from here to Winnemucca are $1.72. The difference in the freight rate of 33 cents on every 100 pounds bars the mills and wholesalers of Reno flour from the Winnemucca market.

The Commercial League asked that this extortionate charge of 33 cents be cut out on the Reno end. The Southern Pacific refused. The Southern Pacific wishes to continue its discrimination against the jobbers in Reno, favoring instead those in Sacramento. The extension of the commerce of Nevada within the state is, therefore, hampered, and inducements are made to protect the shippers in California.

Fallon is situated in the center of a large agricultural district. The needs of the farmers are constant and increasing. Reno merchants have established branch stores there. The railroad admits the importance of this city as a distributing point. But see what the rates result in:

Railroad Denies Relief

Groceries in packages, not otherwise specified in western classification tariffs, are classed in the first division of the rate schedule. Sacramento wholesalers ship these varieties of groceries to Reno for $1.29 per 100 pounds. Reno jobbers can continue the shipments to Fallon at a cost of 61 cents on the 100 pounds. But if the consumers in Fallon buy direct from Sacramento the freight rate for each 100 pounds is $1.65. The difference of 25 cents in favor of the Sacramento merchants closed the door of Fallon against the wholesale grocers of Reno.

The Commercial League asked the Southern Pacific to reduce the charge from Reno on groceries to Fallon to 36 cents for each 100 pounds. That would allow Reno business men to compete with Sacramento for the trade of Fallon's grocery stores. The Southern Pacific refused to grant the request. The agents of Harriman infer that the establishment of such a precedent would ruin its profits. Reno's interests are not considered.

Suppose the mine owners at Wonder, who get their goods through Fallon, want to purchase bags for ore shipments. In less than car load lots the rate from Reno to Fallon is 48 cents per 100 pounds. The jobbers here, buying in Sacramento, pay $1.02 per 100 pounds freight on these jute bags. The total freight rate from Sacramento to Reno and from Reno to Fallon on jute bags, then, is $1.50. But shippers from Sacramento to Fallon under the conditions, less than car load lots, get a rate of $1.33 a hundred pounds.

NEW LAW TO INCREASE THE BUSINESS TAXES

for a period never shorter than six months. Records of transactions by pawnbrokers are required to be kept, and descriptions of the patron, and of the articles pledged, must be sent daily to the chief of police.

Auctioneers are to be taxed at the rate of $2000 a year, or if issued by the month, the license shall be $250, excepting where the goods sold are not shipped into the city for the purpose of the auction, the license shall be $25 a quarter. This provision was passed to prevent competition for the established and licensed merchants.

Clairvoyants, fortune-tellers, spiritualists and palmists will not be prohibitively fined. They will be required to pay $30 a quarter. When some of the followers of these occupations heard that the license was to be restrictive, they complained, and said it would only result in their being driven to Sparks, causing their patrons the extra cost of carfare.

The Tenderloin.

One hundred dollars a week is to be the tax on the resorts in the tenderloin. The enormous profits of these places will be reduced by the tax.

Drivers of automobiles will be required to wear a badge showing that they have paid the motor tax, and no person under the age of 18 will be allowed to drive a machine within the city. Rent-cars will be taxed $3 a quarter. When a driver is arrested the third time for violating the provisions of this ordinance his license will be revoked, and permission to operate an automobile will not be again issued.

Drastic power is given the chief of police, any member of the council and the mayor to cause the license of hotels, saloons or lodging-houses to be revoked by the section of the ordinance that says when written notice is served that thieves, confidence men or bunco scrogs are harbored within the places named, the license shall ipso facto, become null and void.

Different Classes.

The enterprises to be licensed are divided into 28 separate classes, the highest tax being $500 a quarter and the lowest $150. All licenses are to be taken out quarterly, weekly or daily, and shall be paid for in advance. The city clerk is made responsible for the licensing of all the businesses or occupations named in the ordinance.

The tax on regularly established mercantile houses shall be paid according to the following schedule:

Receipts, exceeding $3000 a quarter and not over $5000, $7.50; $5000 and not over $10000, $10; $10000 and not over $15000, $15; $15000 and not over $30000, $25; $30000 and not over $45000, $45; over $45000, $75.

Saloon Tax.

Bar-rooms where spirituous liquors are sold shall pay according to the following schedule:

Gross receipts, $3000 or less, $20; $3000 to $4500, $30; $4500 to $6000, $50; $6000 to $12000, $60; $12000 to $20000, $70; over $20000, $80 a quarter.

Any club selling liquors to members except where a regular saloon license is held, shall be taxed $500 a quarter.

Hotels, restaurants, dining-rooms and eating-houses will pay according to the following schedule:

Where quarterly gross receipts are less than $5000, $7.50; $5000 to $10000, $10; $10000 to $18000, $15 and over $18000, $20.

Hotels, lodging-houses and rooming-houses shall pay according to the number of rooms maintained for rental:

Five to 15 rooms, $5; 15 to 25 rooms, $15; 25 to 75 rooms, $25; 75 to 100 rooms, $30; over 100, $15 a quarter.

Coal and wood yards, architects, sewing machine agents, marble and granite workers, real estate agents, real estate solicitors, cabinet-makers, original contractors, contracting mechanics, soap manufacturers, creameries, warehouses, cold storage plants, newspapers, ice sellers, shooting galleries, blacksmiths and shoers, wagon makers and horse-shoers, drawing legal documents, practicing medicine and surgery, veterinary surgery and dentistry, operating flour mills, conducting newspapers, millinery, cobblers and tailor shops, ice cream and confectionery stores, carpet cleaning establishments and makers of concrete blocks will be taxed according to the following schedule:

Receipts exceeding $20000 a quarter, $80; over $20000, not $30000, $45; over $30000, not $50000, $60; over $50000, not $100000, $75; over $100000, not $200000, $100; over $200000, not $500000, $125; over $500000, not $1000000, $150; over $1000000, not $2000000, $200; over $2000000, not $5000000, $250; over $5000000, not $10000000, $300; over $10000000, not $20000000, $350; over $20000000, not $50000000, $400; BATTLING VISITS RENO; DISCUSSES HIS FIGHT

Dane Claims Honor of Eating the Most Expensive Meal of Modern Times

"I think I can claim the honor of eating the most expensive meal that any man in recent days sat down to," said "Battling" Nelson yesterday at the Golden Hotel to a Journal reporter. "The supper that I ate before I went into the ring with Britt cost me over $2000."

Nelson, looking in the pink of condition, visited Reno yesterday arriving on the early morning train from San Francisco. He was accompanied by his brother Charles Nelson and came on here to meet Jim May and D. S. Gast, for a little hunting jaunt in which they intend to cover 50 miles in an auto then to go into the mountains with pack horses in the neighborhood of Lake Tahoe.

After Fresh Air
"I am going to get a lot of fresh air in my lungs and exhilaration in my system," said Nelson. "The public seems to think I need a rest and I am going to take it right now. I myself don't feel that I need it, but naturally when a man has gone up against such a sudden and unlooked-for reverse as that I encountered recently in Colma one is liable to feel a little depressed. I intend to return in time for the Labor Day fight I have a promise with both Britt and Gans for a match as soon as their own affairs are settled."

Nelson was very sincere and frank in his statements regarding the unfortunate culmination of the fight with Colma with Britt. That he feels thoroughly disgusted with the result and that he is more than ambitious to regain all the ground he has lost was shown in every statement he made. The one none of Nelson seems to be his desire to more than get even with both Britt and Gans and should Reno be fortunate enough to see a fight with him and either of these undoubtedly there will happen much to remember in the fight world.

Lives Temperately
"In the first place," said Nelson, "I wish The Journal would entirely refrain from the charges that I have in any way been dissipating. I do not smoke or drink and I live in every way temperately. I trained honestly and sincerely for the Britt fight and I was willing to bet everything I had on my end of the fight even with the odds at 10 to 6."

"What was the reason of my bad showing?"—yes, I admit it was a bad showing. I want you first of all to think of my past record and to understand that I am not a squealer or a wetcher. I want to tell you in all honesty that it was the rottenest fight I ever made in all my life. I knew there was no chance for me before the 13th round and if I had been pitted against a stronger man the end would have come much sooner than it did."

"It might seem strange that a man who has tramped up to the minute could be doped by eating too much beefsteak but that is what happened to me. It was 8 o'clock when I went with a party of friends to supper or at least it was that time till we got served. I was feeling so very good that I took a double portion of steak. As soon as I got into the ring an hour later I realized the foolish mistake I had made. Britt seemed to realize conditions and it was early in the fight when he sent a wallop into my pantry and that almost did the business. From then on it was merely the fighting instinct that kept me going. After the 15th round I spent my energies in keeping Britt tugging and holding on and so giving me more strength and time. Sometimes even a racehorse does not do all that is expected of him and he is beaten by a selling plater. I don't blame anyone but myself."

Gans Never Hurt Him
"Some people think that the best I got from Gans hurt me for good but I left the ring at Goldfield almost without a scratch. Gans is in for a good licking. He is now 33 years old and I only wish I had the immediate chance to get at him. I don't think his chances are improving with age. I think that Britt has a good chance with him and I think the fight between him and Britt will be pulled off a tight Gans however, can murder any man who will not force the fighting with him. He can out-box any man in his class that ever lived. The only way to lick him is to go in and fight him from the start."

"My share of the recent Frisco fight was $3800. Contrary to reports I did not have a scratch on me. I was poulticed with white lead which made me look like an invalid."

The Nelson-Britt fight two summers ago undoubtedly ranks as the best fight encounter of its kind that has been seen in some years. The splendid showing that Nelson made then as compared with Britt leads one to believe that if Britt gives him another chance it will not be such a walkover for the California friends of Neva Aymar as was the last.

Interested in Mines
While here Nelson intends to run over to Virginia City where he is interested in the Battling Nelson Mining Company, owning a group of claims from which high assays have been taken, very close to the good old Comstock mines.

One of the interesting features of Nelson's visit here was the appearance of

YANKEE YACHTS AFTER KAISER'S CUP AT KIEL

KIEL Aug 11—Preparations are finished for the first international yacht race for the German Emperor's Cup between the three American boats Spokane I, Chewink III and the Marblehead, and the German yachts Tilly X, Wannee and Wittelsbach II. Prince Henry of Prussia will sail Tilly X. Dates for the succeeding races are subject to change, but the contests will probably be held Tuesday, Thursday Friday and next Monday and, if necessary for a decision, on August 20.

Of the American yachts Spokane I was built last year and just failed to qualify in the finals against the German boats in the races for the Roosevelt Cup. It is owned by F. Lewis Clark. The other two boats were built this year. The Chewink VIII being the property of F. C. Macomber Jr. and the Marblehead is owned by W. H. Joyce and Samuel H. Foster. In the preliminary trials in German waters the boats have shown up well and the Americans are confident of taking the Kaiser's Cup back to the United States.

Later the American boats will go to Spain for a series of races to be held under the auspices of the Royal Yacht Club at San Sebastian for another royal trophy offered by King Alfonso. The so-called "sonder" type boat originated in Germany several years ago and were made popular on the other side of the Atlantic through the contest last year between three American and three German boats for the Roosevelt Cup which was won by the American boat Vim in three out of five races.

ance of his brother who is only at a distance of 100 miles from his profession.

Why don't you take an honest confession? says his brother. You could get $3 a day in a lumber camp. Nelson has kept his brother at school for some time. He is going through his second year at Berkeley having graduated from the Henry Clay School at Hedgeville, Ill. where Nelson's parents now reside and where the Battler keeps them in a happy state of prosperity.

Nelson leaves early in the morning for the hunting trip. I want to get away from publicity he said. "I'll get some back fresh and challenge the winner of the forthcoming California fight."

BURNS GOES TO THE COMSTOCK THIS MORNING

Whether the Burns-Johnson fight can be arranged for Reno will not be settled for several days yet. Tommy Burns will go to Virginia City this morning to appear there tonight on the stage and tomorrow night he is to appear at Carson. He is anxious to meet Johnson and prefers to go into a ring with him in Reno to any other place.

As to Johnson those who are acquainted with his plans say he will readily agree to fight the vanquisher of Squires here. The colored man is well known to be anxious to fight Burns at any time so the question of the date will be readily accommodated.

The idea of having the meeting in Thanksgiving week was received yesterday with general favor. The weather last year was unusual when snow was on the ground at that time and the weather bureau records were said to show that November is usually an Indian summer month in this part of Nevada.

Jim May will start out in a few days to interview some of the business men of Reno to see what can be done in regard to guaranteeing a purse for the fight. Before Burns leaves Nevada something definite will be known as to the possibilities of the contest.

Burns boxed before a large house last night at the Hippodrome. Jim May had Battling Nelson with him and was among the spectators. They enjoyed the brief bout between Burns and his trainer and the entire crowd only regretted that it did not last five or six more rounds.

AT PAPE SEEKS A MATCH

At Pape of this city, amateur champion of the coast is in correspondence with the annual legislative association committee of Nevada regarding a meeting between himself and D. O. Gloss who claims the championship of the northwest. It is likely that a match will be arranged.

Logan Still Missing
The police have learned nothing about the whereabouts of S. F. Logan who was reported missing by his room-mate Mr. Lawrence Saturday. Lawrence feared he might have thrown himself into the river while dependent. He has been seen by no one who knew him.

MONUMENT TO 'BOB' INGERSOLL

Statue Was to Have Been Unveiled Tomorrow, Ceremony Has Been Indefinitely Postponed

SCULPTURE STILL UNFINISHED

Peoria to Be Site of Memorial, Which Will Cost $10000 for the Materials Alone

(Special Dispatch to The Journal)

PEORIA, Ill Aug 11—Owing to the delay in the completion of the magnificent statue to Robert G. Ingersoll to be erected in Glen Oak park the unveiling which was scheduled for tomorrow the 74th anniversary of the great orator's birth has been indefinitely postponed.

The memorial will cost $10000, and depicts Colonel Ingersoll with his hands on his hips, a characteristic attitude. The statue is being made by Fritz Tribel the New York sculptor who was a personal friend of the late distinguished orator and will be one-third larger than life.

Regardless of religious or political differences the memory of Colonel Bob is treasured by all the older citizens of Peoria. While he was born in New York, it was in Peoria that Colonel Ingersoll achieved distinction as a lawyer and an orator. The people here knew him best and loved him most and to them has fallen the privilege of rearing the first great monument to perpetuate his memory.

Ingersoll came to Peoria from Shawanctown, Ill. in 1857 then a young attorney of 21 years. In Peoria he received his commission as colonel of the 11th Illinois cavalry. After several years' experience as a soldier and a prisoner of war, he returned to Peoria and there arose to become one of the greatest lawyers of the state and the nation. He was elected attorney-general of Illinois in 1866 and two years later was proffered the Republican nomination for governor if he would consent to keep silence on the subject of religion—an offer which he refused.

He married in Peoria and both of his daughters were born here. Even after he removed to Washington in 1877 and later to New York, he continued to be known in Illinois as "Bob Ingersoll of Peoria."

STOCKS MINES and MARKETS

BEARS NEARING END OF TETHER

Indications That Next Week Will Witness Strong Upward Movement

GOLDFIELDS ARE FIRMER

Consolidated Makes Slight Gain After Opening of Saturday Session

There are a few slight signs visible which indicate that the bear raid in Wall street has about reached the limits of its depredations, so far, at least, as Nevada mining stocks are concerned.

Yesterday's report shows Consolidated to have reached what looks like bedrock, and the general appearance of the board bears out the impression. The stock opened at 8.2 1/2 and gained two and a half points before the early Saturday closing, with fair sales at better prices.

Nearly all the Goldfield stocks show a firmness in marked contrast to the weakness displayed during the past few days, and it is the present belief, that before the middle of the coming week a strong upward movement will be apparent.

FOUND BY ACCIDENT LIKE THE MIZPAH

Frank Herrell, one of the pioneer operators of Dolly Varden, and a director in the Dolly Varden United Copper Company, came in last night from the northern copper camp, on business connected with the Dolly Varden United. The stock certificates for that corporation arrived here a few days ago, and the organizers are now receiving their quota of stock.

When all the details connected with the formation of the company have been disposed of, active work will be started on the mines. Mr. Herrell has been appointed manager of the company, and he will supervise the opening up of the mine.

Negotiations were completed and papers signed yesterday by which a syndicate of Canadian capitalists secured control of a large tract of the Grandma Mining Company's ground, and will conduct as thorough and systematic exploitation as any leasing company in Nevada.

"The latest sensation at Dolly Varden," said Mr. Herrell to an Examiner reporter, "is a big strike on the Moore & McAnulty mine. At the depth of 152 feet they encountered a fine body of borinite, which is studded with pyrites. The whole bottom of the shaft is in this ore, and the owners of the mine think that it is permanent. The ore will assay 26 per cent. in the red metal. Before getting this ore they had passed through about 70 feet of iron pyrites."

"The Millick boys have the biggest proposition at Dolly Varden. There is a good story connected with the discovery of this bonanza. While working some of the claims there, one of the boys went out to hunt a horse, which had gotten away."

"He accidentally picked up a rock with the intention of throwing it at the horse. In some way the rock was broken in two pieces, and the presence of lead was thus disclosed. With this as a starter, they prospected around until they found the ore body."

"None of the old timers had any idea that there was anything like this at Dolly Varden. At a depth of 10 feet in their new shaft they have an ore body six feet wide, which will average 26 per cent lead and 35 ounces in silver. The hanging and foot walls have not yet been determined. A showing like this means something."—Expositor.

BREYFOGLE MINE NOW HOISTING HIGH GRADE

The Manhattan Breyfogle estate is in ore at a depth of 157 feet.

The magnitude of the strike warrants the prediction that the property will soon be classed with the Mustang and Thanksgiving in the riches and yield of its precious metal deposits.

Ore was encountered in the Breyfogle shaft last Thursday morning, and on the following day came the announcement that the entire bottom of the shaft was in quartz having an average gold grade of $50 the ton. Since that date there has been no diminution in either extent or quality of the ore body.

Manhattan Breyfogle acreage is situated on Mustang hill and endlines the Mustang and Thanksgiving estates. Ever since the Mustang and Thanksgiving, first begun, and later the high grade ore, prediction has been made that the Breyfogle would be the property next in line of mineral primogeniture to add luster to the now famous Mustang hill section. That the wisecracks and, incidentally, the Breyfogle, have made good, is now apparent.

The strike was made at about the same distance from the contact as was that in the Thanksgiving workings, and as in the case of the latter property, the ore runs parallel with the contact.—The Mail.

KAOLIN CALLS FOR ATTENTION

Stoneware Factory Coming As A Result of Verdi Discovery

SACRAMENTO FIRM INTERESTED

Representatives Makes Inquiries and Ships Samples to California Capital

News of the big kaolin ledge back of Verdi, which has been published in The Journal from time to time since its discovery, has attracted attention beyond the Sierra's and as a result it is well within the probable that within another year Reno will have another manufacturing plant added to her industries.

F. L. Russell of the California Stoneware Company of Sacramento, has written asking for samples of the kaolin found here, with a view to establishing a factory here should the quality of the material mined be such as to warrant it, and yesterday W. N. Burelock called at the Journal office to make inquiries concerning the kaolin, the location and extent of the ledge, the names of the owners, etc., all of which was furnished him, together with a sample of the material, which is now on the way to Sacramento.

Should the material prove satisfactory, and advantageous terms with the owners of the kaolin ledge result from the negotiations, Reno will soon be enabled to buy sewer pipe at home without being subject to the long delay incidental to placing orders in the east, and all sorts of products arising from the conversion of the raw kaolin into finished articles of commerce, will be shipped from here, instead of being imported.

DIAMOND DRILLS WILL EXPLORE GRANDMA MINE

This syndicate yesterday signed a long-time lease, and also a contract to sink 1,000 feet. A 100-horsepower hoist has been ordered for quick delivery and a steel galloway frame will be erected as rapidly as the materials can be shipped here.

Moreover, diamond drills are to be used. These drills are now on the Grandma ground, and the lessees have been given 75 days in which to do experimental work, looking to the best location for the sinking of the shaft. The Canadians back of this work are all men of wealth, and the corporation they have formed is one of the closest in the west. No stock whatever will be placed on sale, and the company is prepared to prosecute work for two years.

The Grandma company was represented in the contract by Arthur Weber, who yesterday announced the conclusion of the entire deal.

"This means a great deal for the camp," said Mr. Weber, "and especially for that portion in which the Grandma is situated. The old shaft will not be used. The syndicate will spend over two months with its diamond drills in finding the best indications for a bore, and when this has been determined you may rest assured that development work will be thorough and unceasing."

The Grandma is located just east of the Kewanas, on which a big strike was recently made, and just west of the Blue Bell.

Mr. Stearns, who represents the lessees on the Yellow Tiger property, has been designated by the Canadian syndicate as its manager in Goldfield, and yesterday formally entered upon his duties.

Mr. Weber announces that the Ore company shaft, near the Booth and Kewanas, now down 225 feet, has cut through an excellent appearing ledge. A station will be cut at this level, and drifting on the ore body and sinking will be carried on with more determination.—Tribune.

UNION BLUE SHIPPING TO UTAH SMELTERS

Ore from the Union Blue Company's ground, located about a mile and a quarter north of the Ludwig shaft, is now being loaded on wagons for shipment to Salt Lake. A carload of this ore will be shipped just as soon as it can be hauled to the depot at Wabuska. This ore is being taken out of the face of a tunnel that is only in a distance of about 20 feet and which cuts the ledge at only a short depth below the surface. Samples of the ore shown at this office run as high as 40 per cent, and the character of the ore is an oxide and borate, but the average grade of ore shipped will probably run about 20 per cent.

The Union Blue is the property that R. P. Goodale took a bond on the first part of last June. Mr. Goodale was out at that time from his home in Denver, Colorado, and liked the looks of the country so well, particularly that section of it in which the Union Blue claims are located, that he secured the option at once and began development work soon after. The ground is in an excellent locality, and the showings so far made are indicative of a valuable copper property. It is being opened up in the very near future.—Ex.

CHANCE PLAYS GREAT PART

The Locating of Great Mines in First Instance is Often Mere Luck.

A PROSPECTOR'S INTUITION

Wheels of Freight Wagon on Mountain Grade Uncovered a Great Property

In mining it often seems that the element of chance is an important factor. Particularly is this the case in prospecting and in the development of new mines. The experienced prospector may search in vain for a mine where geological conditions are seemingly the most promising, while the tenderfoot unwittingly stumbles upon a vein worth millions. In one instance three men who located a famous mine sat repeatedly at midday lunch upon an outcropping before one of them observed the gold scattered through the rock. A rich mine was discovered in Montana by a man packing his blankets over a mountain road that had been a highway for 20 years. He was walking behind a heavily loaded freight wagon the wheels of which ground off a fragment of rock from a rut in the road.

Nearly 20 years ago an experienced miner in Arizona made his way up a steep gorge. Sometime, he was unable to explain what probably that intuition characteristic of miners—urged him to return to this deep, uninviting canyon. He went back and looked again, with the same result—no indications. A third and then a fourth time he penetrated this rent in the earth's surface. Towering cliffs of basalt on one side, old crystallized schists cut by dykes on the other. Good geological features, the latter certainly. Late in the afternoon of the fourth day he sat in the broiling sun on a granite boulder and gazed wistfully at the steep hillside, shimmering in the heat. Worn out with his fruitless quest, he was about to start wearily back to camp, several miles distant.

Finally he got up, and with a grit born of desperation made his toilsome way up the slope, eager-eyed, overlooking nothing. A few hundred feet from the creek he observed a small outcrop. It was less than a foot wide and four or five feet long. He struck his pick into the soft, crumbling mass of granulated quartz and iron oxide. It looked good. He took a small sack full and returned to the creek. The horn spoon came into use and in a very few minutes the weary prospector was leaping up the hillside at a gait which would have surprised any who might have seen him. The horn spoon showed rock of wonderful richness, and another millionaire had suddenly come into existence.

The first two instances, above mentioned were merely fortuitous. The last was the result of indomitable will, a determination to succeed. It is this latter quality, so largely developed in those pioneers of our mining fields the world over—the prospectors—that is responsible for the discovery of most of the great mines.

"Seek and ye shall find," was not written with direct reference to prospectors, but it applies to them as well. As to mining being a gamble, there always is an element of uncertainty—a most alluring, indefinite possibility in an undeveloped mine—but in the extensively opened property, when in the hands of competent and honest management, mining is not more of a gamble or more risky than the construction of a new railroad or the establishment of any new industrial enterprise. In fact, it involves less risk, because the real resources of the mine are capable of measurement and the possible profits or losses can be figured arbitrarily.—Los Angeles Mining Record.

MILLS FOR MANHATTAN AND ROUND MOUNTAIN

A party comprising Paul Tarpey, the machinery man; W. C. Howard, the architect; M. F. Walsh, another machinery man; Ernest Boak and Charles Cochran, left at 4 o'clock yesterday morning for Manhattan and Round Mountain. The object of the trip is to figure on the work of putting up a mill in each camp.

The mill for Manhattan is to be built on the ground of the Wolfstone Mining Company, and has the backing of Philadelphia capitalists, represented by C. S. Lemmon. It is to be a custom mill of ten stamps, and when it is in operation the dumps around Manhattan will be rapidly reduced and converted into money. The mill of the Manhattan Ore Reducing and Refining Company will be in operation about the middle of September, and this will give a momentum to the camp the like of which could not be produced by any other agency.

In Round Mountain the mill planned for is to be put up on the Round Mountain Daisy, where there are two leases in active operation, and plenty of milling ore in the vicinity from which to draw. There is any amount of work going in this camp and several small mills have been installed. When the hydraulic plant is installed in about 30 days, the ground will be turned over, and only will the gold be washed up, but it is expected that new ledges will be exposed near the surface.—Bonanza.

YELLOW PINE RICH IN ZINC

Clark's Expert Takes Over Bonded Property and Branch Will Be Soon Built.

LOCATED IN LINCOLN COUNTY

District Also Has Some Very Rich Gypsum Deposits, and is Large.

A new mining country is being opened up about seven miles southwest of Jean, Nev., a small station on Senator Clark's railroad. It lies in what is known as the Yellow Pine mining district, Lincoln county, Nevada, and is about the same distance from Good Springs as it is from Jean. It has been known for years that the country was rich in zinc, but worthless for the reason that the metal could not be worked profitably. Laterly appliances have been discovered, and zinc is as much sought for as any of the other metals.

Guy Fruit and J. R. MacDonald, both of Rhyolite, Nev., have had the Monte Cristo group, consisting of three full claims, under lease and bond from a man named Kennedy, who discovered them. Messrs. Fruit and MacDonald turned their holdings over to Jim Harvey, Patsy Clark's expert, for $250,000, an increase over Fruit and MacDonald's bond of $200,000.

The Clark's commenced mining, sparing no expense in opening up the ore body, and before there was shelter for the men from the hot rays of the desert or to either cook or sleep the first carload of ore had been consigned to a reduction plant.

The ore body is at least 100 feet wide, wholly in lime, the course of the vein northeasterly and southwesterly and dipping toward the north. A crosscut tunnel taps the vein from which the first carload of ore was produced. A winze is being sunk at the mouth of the tunnel, where a fifty horsepower gasoline hoist will be installed, although there are mountains of ore without having to go below the surface. The winze is down 30 feet, all in ore.

Two teams haul a car of ore a day to Jean and freight back. There is no water at the mine or at Jean, and it is furnished by the courtesy of Senator Clark's railroad.

It is reported that owing to the immense quantity of zinc ore abounding in the locality Senator Clark has in view the building of a branch at the very earliest possible moment. Vice president and manager for the senator, J. Ross Clark, his brother, has visited the district and he was more than favorably impressed with the wonderful mineral possibilities.

There is no stampede on for the reason that very few prospectors know zinc when they see it. The ore here is a white carbonate, and any miner or prospector not being accustomed to the character of the ore would pass it up. It glistens like snow in the burning sun, and the ore body in the Monte Cristo group samples 51 per cent from wall to wall, with no returns on bi-products.

The Yellow Pine mining district is one of the largest in the state of Nevada, and includes the Pelosia, Good Springs, Sandy and country for miles tributary to them, and even includes the rich gypsum deposits of 98 1/2 per cent and on which a mammoth plant is being built by the Arden Plaster company to manufacture the crude ore into a marketable output. Arden is twelve miles north of Jean.—Greenwater Times.

L. A. FRIEDMAN TELLS OF MINES

Man Who Controls Many Mining Properties in the Seven Troughs Country.

LOOKING FOR RENO LOCATION

Will Locate Offices, and Possibly Branch of Vernon Bank, in This City.

L. A. Friedman, a mining magnate of the Seven Troughs district, who is the leading spirit of that camp, has been spending the past two weeks in Reno and Carson City on business pertaining to his properties in that section. He leaves tonight for Vernon, to superintend an aggressive campaign which he is about to inaugurate in connection with the properties he controls. Mr. Friedman owns the principal interest in the Seven Troughs Kindergarten, the Seven Troughs Fairview and the Seven Troughs Theron. Since the amicable settlement of the strike, Mr. Friedman has added to the big force of men he has had operating from Good Springs as it is from Jean. It has been known for years that the country was rich in zinc, but worthless for the reason that the metal could not be worked profitably. Laterly appliances have been discovered, and zinc is as much sought for as any of the other metals.

Guy Fruit and J. R. MacDonald, both of Rhyolite, Nev., have had the Monte Cristo group, consisting of three full claims, under lease and bond from a man named Kennedy, who discovered them. Messrs. Fruit and MacDonald turned their holdings over to Jim Harvey, Patsy Clark's expert, for $250,000, an increase over Fruit and MacDonald's bond of $200,000.

The Clark's commenced mining, sparing no expense in opening up the ore body, and before there was shelter for the men from the hot rays of the desert or to either cook or sleep the first carload of ore had been consigned to a reduction plant.

The ore body is at least 100 feet wide, wholly in lime, the course of the vein northeasterly and southwesterly and dipping toward the north. A crosscut tunnel taps the vein from which the first carload of ore was produced. A winze is being sunk at the mouth of the tunnel, where a fifty horsepower gasoline hoist will be installed, although there are mountains of ore without having to go below the surface. The winze is down 30 feet, all in ore.

Two teams haul a car of ore a day to Jean and freight back. There is no water at the mine or at Jean, and it is furnished by the courtesy of Senator Clark's railroad.

It is reported that owing to the immense quantity of zinc ore abounding in the locality Senator Clark has in view the building of a branch at the very earliest possible moment. Vice president and manager for the senator, J. Ross Clark, his brother, has visited the district and he was more than favorably impressed with the wonderful mineral possibilities.

There is no stampede on for the reason that very few prospectors know zinc when they see it. The ore here is a white carbonate, and any miner or prospector not being accustomed to the character of the ore would pass it up. It glistens like snow in the burning sun, and the ore body in the Monte Cristo group samples 51 per cent from wall to wall, with no returns on bi-products.

The Yellow Pine mining district is one of the largest in the state of Nevada, and includes the Pelosia, Good Springs, Sandy and country for miles tributary to them, and even includes the rich gypsum deposits of 98 1/2 per cent and on which a mammoth plant is being built by the Arden Plaster company to manufacture the crude ore into a marketable output. Arden is twelve miles north of Jean.—Greenwater Times.

RAMSEY AT HOME; WANTS DIVORCE

Man Who Disappeared Weeks Ago, Returns With Intentions of Breaking Matrimonial Bonds.

HAS BEEN ENJOYING HIMSELF

Read Journal Stories of Wife's Fears of Fool Play, and Checked—Passed Through Reno Once.

Jack Ramsey, the Overland hotel clerk who left a few weeks ago, and by his refusal to correspond with his wife led her to believe he had met with foul play, has returned to this city for the purpose of getting a divorce. Family troubles, he says, caused his sudden departure and his seclusion, but now that he has had time to think over the difficulties he thinks exist, he has decided to seek legal separation from the bonds that were once a source of pleasure.

While Mrs. Ramsey was unconsoled and broken-hearted by his departure, Jack lived in San Francisco and Oakland, carefully reading The Journal with the accounts of his disappearance and checking to himself. Letters that were written to him were returned unopened. When he saw gossiping Renosites on the streets of the coast metropolis, he flew to cover. Ramsey said yesterday that he came through this city once after he gave up his position with the Overland, and went to Mohawk, Cal., where he spent the time fishing and hunting.

"I had a good rest in the mountains," said the clerk. "Now I am ready to work again."

"Before I determine on the proceedings," continued Jack, "I will confer with my attorneys. They will advise me what disposition to make of my property, and what concessions to make my wife in case she agrees not to fight the divorce."

SAYS HE'S A RENO FORGER; UNKNOWN HERE

Elmore Cummings, who says he is conscience-stricken over a $40 forgery that he perpetrated in Reno more than a year ago, has given himself up to the police of Oakland, and wants to be returned to this state to stand trial. Pending inquiries, Cummings is held in the city prison in Oakland.

Meanwhile the chief of police here cannot find anyone who was the victim of the forgery, nor has the sheriff's office been informed. The police say there is no use putting a "want ad" in the papers for anyone to produce the evidence that will result in the return of Cummings to Reno; so, unless the California prisoner confesses further, he will not be the defendant in a Washoe county court.

CANNOT REDUCE WATER RATES

Company Claims Present Charges Not Excessive When Wasteful Consumption Is Considered.

8,000,000 GALLONS USED DAILY

With But 18000 Population, Reno Uses One-Seventh as Much Water as Baltimore, with 500,000

That the rates charged consumers of water in this city are not excessive, when the absence of restrictions is considered; that in proportion with population the number of gallons consumed for each resident is far more than in other places, and that no reductions should be made in the prices without first limiting the privileges of the user—these will be, it was learned yesterday, the contentions of the Reno Power, Light & Water Company at the council meeting tonight in answer to the action started by Mayor Kirman. The mayor plans to cut the rates.

The argument of the water company will be that spigots and old-fashioned traps are allowed to run 24 hours a day, and that the extravagant consumption of water in the city empties the reservoirs of 8,000,000 gallons a day. With 18,000 residents, Reno's water record is far ahead of Baltimore's, where 500,000 people use only 60,000,000 gallons every day.

Until the city restricts the unlimited use of water here, one official of the corporation stated yesterday, reductions in the water rates would be impracticable.

The application of the Reno Heating & Refrigerating Company for a franchise will also be considered by the council. The desirability of this corporation will be urged by a representative of the stockholders.

The revised license ordinance will probably be passed.

LOCAL JEKYL-HYDE CASE DISCOVERED BY POLICE

crimes that have been of nightly occurrence in the resorts between East Second and First streets. Concealed by a lean-to of roughly constructed timbers, the robber is alleged by the police to have crawled along, watching scenes within four cribs which had been rented and sublet to women whom Mead is said to have induced to come here from Colorado. The panel-operator, in his deprecations, is alleged by the police, to have waited until a victim's attention was distracted, and until his garments containing the valuables were conveniently placed. Then, the police declare, he would open a pass-board panel in the rear door, remove the garments, rifle the pockets and replace them.

Released on Bail
These operations may have been committed with the knowledge of the denizens of the cribs, but, the police say, if they were not, the panel-man was doubly clever.

Mead was charged with vagrancy and was released at a late hour by Judge Richardson. His bail was fixed at $50. The sum was paid by a "friend" who refused to give his name.

"As a promoter of the Lustre Mining & Manufacturing Company, Mead got the aid of C. A. Clough, a prominent business man of Reno. Mead's cards show that he is the vice-president of this corporation. W. A. McNaughton is also interested in the concern. The company was recently organized to develop soap deposits north of Reno. When Mead had obtained the capital, he was sent to Denver to examine machinery necessary for the first work on the soap claims. He is said to have brought back—not the machinery—but four painted fabrics of the half-world. Mead is alleged to have rented cribs for them, and to have left his own mistress to preside over them.

Behind the cribs is constructed a wooden shed, connecting all four of them. Access to this is gained by a door fastened by a Yale lock. Noiseless, sliding panels are placed in the doors of the cribs, leaving robbery easy to accomplish. Generally the

ONLY SEVEN BUT SAVED BROTHER

Little Boy's Timely Screams Bring Help and Prevent Baby Brother's Death

CHILD PLAYED WITH MATCHES

Mother Burns Her Own Hands Severely When Called by Son's Shouts to the Rescue

Oliver Kistler, seven years of age, and the son of Dr. W. L. Kistler, saved the life of his younger brother Willard Saturday afternoon by screaming so as to attract the attention of the mother when the child's clothes were aflame. Not before the fire had burned Willard's arm until the flesh dropped off, was Mrs. Kistler able to smother the blaze, and in the effort her own hands were badly burned.

The Kistler boys were playing in the rear of their home, 628 South Virginia street, glazing dishes for a miniature irrefragating system. Willard obtained some matches, his parents do not know where, and before he could be prevented, had lighted them. Oliver first realized the danger when, on looking up from his play, he saw his brother standing speechless with the fire playing around him and arms extended toward him. Grabbing Willard by the shoulder, Oliver frantically attempted to pull the shirt from his back. He could not do this. Then he screamed for his mother to come to the rescue.

Mrs. Kistler believes that her son would have been burned to death if his brother had not acted promptly. Willard Kistler was reported as improved yesterday afternoon.

DID MOE MARRY? IS HE ALIVE OR DEAD?

Where is E. O. Moe? Is he alive or dead, and did he marry the pretty Scandinavian girl with whom he was in love? These are questions that his father wants answered, and L. W. Lindstrom of Ortonville, Minnesota, has written to The Journal asking for information.

Moe was a native of Norway. It is known that he spent Christmas in Reno with a Swedish family here. That he was in Kailash January 31, 1905, and had been employed in Columbia the year previous. Since then nothing has been heard of him.

RENO BEST FOR BUSINESS

"Reno is the best place in the state for a business location," says A. D. Renfro, the automobile line operator of Southern Nevada. That is the reason he is about to start a new garage here.

"We intend to erect a first-class 2-story brick building, 775 by 150 feet, for the housing of our buildings," he said yesterday. "The lower floor will be used as a garage, and the upper story for a machine shop. We will install a large elevator for moving machines from the first to the second floors."

When Mr. Renfro went to Tonopah and engaged in the automobile business, his capital consisted of a small Stevens-Duryer machine, which he has added to till he has $75,000 invested.

The Reno Builders' Association, composed of the local contract firms, is now installed in expensively fitted offices at 29 West Commercial Row. Desks are provided for the members of the corporation, the building trade and engineering journals are filed and it is a kind of club.
